Summer School Head Will Augment Staff

The School Committee agreed with Edward Regan, Shawsheen School principal who is director of the elementary school summer school, that the town should offer a quality summer program, if at all, and undertake a deficit this summer to insure this. The Committee therefore authorized Regan to go into the red, to hire additional personnel to keep classes at the optimum size and to open and staff the library at the Shawsheen School, where the elementary summer school will be held.

Specifically, the School Committee directed Regan to hire two additonal teachers, one in remedial reading and one in developmental arithmetic, with permission to hire another developmental reading teacher if enrollment indicates the need. Regan said he planned to hire an elementary school teacher to supervise the Shawsheen School Library.

Committee members Fred Fitzgerald and Mrs. Virginia Cole persuaded the Committee that the Shawsheen Library should be open to all children, not just summer session students, and asked Regan to keep track of its use, to help gauge interest in keeping school libraries open during the summer.

Capital Improvement Needs Are Projected

Schools play the predominant part in the town of Andover's municipal capital improvement needs over the next six years, a survey prepared by the planning board shows.

Over one-half of the estimated expenditures over that time would be for school facilities, the document indicates.

In an introduction to the 40-page report made available this week, Chairman Harold T. King of the planning board says that it was hoped to have the report ready before the March town meeting, but this was not found possible.

Assisting with the work was the professional consultant firm of Adams, Howard and Oppermann of Cambridge.

In addition to new schools, the planners considered a new fire station for Ballardvale, sewer and water line extensions and expansion of recreational facilities.

In preparing the report, department heads were requested to submit descriptions of projects they felt would be needed over the six year period. These des-

Bazaar Days Friday, Saturday

The shopping area of Main St. will have a carnival spirit for the next two days as Andover marks its annual Sidewalk Bazaar Days on Friday and Saturday.

A dozen organizations are cooperating to make the event a colorful and enjoyable affair.

From 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, the area will be jammed with men, women and children. There will be many special attractions, including rides for children and sidewalk booths containing a variety of items.

The event is sponsored by the Andover Chamber of Commerce and is one of the largest promotions of the year in town.

The kiddie rides will be located in the municipal parking lot, while pony rides will be available at a vacant lot on Main St.

Musical groups will perform at several locations along the street. These will include a bagpipe band, barber shoppers, a banjo group, and other combos.

During the hours when the bazaar is in progress, traffic will be re-routed away from the business district as it has in other years so that downtown visitors may walk at will along the street.

The schedule for the two days is as follows:

Friday 9 a.m. - 9 p.m.

Rollo the Stilt Walker - will do his highwalking in front of Sutherland's from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Chicken Barbecue & Fish Chowder Supper - In Municipal Parking Lot from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Rain Location - Bay State Merchant's National Bank. Tickets may be purchased up 'til 4:30

Clan MacPherson Bagpipe Band - Will give a concert in front of Bay State Merchant's National Bank from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Andover Townsmen (Barber Shoppers) - Will perform in front of the Merrimack Valley National

Canadian Student Comes Here To Finish School

By Helen M. Eccles

Would you believe graduating a high school senior a month early, up in Toronto, Canada, just so he could come down and spend a month in Andover High School, and report what it was like?

Better still, make this a former Andover student, so he can report not on just the differences between American and Canadian high schools, students, attitudes, but the differences between the Andover he remembers as an eighth grader here and the Andover he sees now, as a visiting senior from Victoria Park Secondary School, in Don Mills, a close suburb of Toronto.

The "Foreign student" is Gary Bellinger, who attended Andover's Central School and the junior high, until his dad's work with the John Hancock Insurance Company transferred him to Toronto. The B.C. Bellinger family now lives at 41 Hatherton Crescent, Don Mills, Ontario.

Throughout May, Gary was living with the Harold Debolt family, at 79 Wildwood Rd., and going to

Summer Activity At Center

James Carroll's report to the School committee on the seven-week-old Student Activity Center at the high school commended students' responsible planning and responsible behavior, and successfully urged a summer program at the Center three nights a week.

The Committee praised Carroll, and the high school-recreation department teamwork which made it possible for students to operate

High School Students Win Many Awards, Scholarships

Commencement

Andover High School seniors, parents and friends, gathered for graduation ceremonies last Friday evening, heard a graduation address and original poems by three members of the graduating class, and applauded the presentation of 45 scholarship awards to graduating seniors at graduation ceremonies pulled indoors into the gymnasium because of threatening weather. David Konjoian, chapter president of the National Honor Society, news editor of the school paper and class and council officer, delivered the graduation address on lines by A.E. Housman, "I, a stranger and afraid in a world I never made..."

Linda Kopatch, Spanish Club president and art editor of the high school's publications, "Imprint," "Andanno," and "Spindrift," presented her original verse, "To There, With Love," and the original poem of Virginia Campbell, year book editor, was entitled "For The Love of America."

Four scholarships among the 45 awarded Friday held particular significance for the graduating class, since they were memorials to a classmate and a teacher. The Reed Sargent Memorial Scholarship of $500 given by his parents in memory of their son, a member of the Class of 1968 who lost his life in an automobile accident

Charles A. Fowlie

New Minister At BV Church

The new pastor of the Ballard Vale United Church will be the Rev. Charles A. Fowlie. A native of Wakefield, he is a graduate of Bangor (Maine) Theological Seminary. After serving as student pastor to several churches in Maine, he has been since June 1964 assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church in Melrose, with specific duties as minister to youth and young adults. It was his experience during volunteer work with Methodist Youth Fellowship groups that prompted him to enter the ministry, in the belief that the church can best answer the searching questions facing young people today.

He has served as Bulletin Editor, Melrose Rotary Club; Secretary-Treasurer, Melrose Ministers' Association; Director of Youth Activities, Methodist Lynn District; Chaplain, Fourth Estate Lodge, A.F. & A.M.; Secretary-Treasurer, Middlesex Antique Auto Club; and is a member of two other antique auto clubs. He was a participant in the Brandeis University Wien International Scholarship Program.

His hobbies are hunting, restoring antique and classic automobiles, and raising Golden Retriever dogs.

He was approved for pastor of the local church by unanimous vote of the Pastoral Relations Committee. He and his wife, the former Donna Lee Rowe, will take up residence in the parsonage on Hall Ave. sometime this week and he will conduct his first service next Sunday, June 23, at 10 a.m.

Andover High School with senior Tom Debolt.

But what made Gary come? He says its because he kept running into cliche attitudes about Americans among his Canadian friends: "Is it true that American colleges are full of dumb football players who don't have to work to graduate?" "Is it true that American high schools are much easier than ours?"

He began to realize that for two peoples so close, Canadians and Americans know very little about each other.

"Is there still a lot of Joseph McCarthyism in the States - people who think they see a Russian secret agent behind every potted palm?" "Americans are very nationalistic, aren't they?" - all these and lots of more sensible questions that Gary had to answer with: "I really couldn't tell you. I haven't been there since the eighth grade. And I don't know anything about the high school."

It was Gary's art teacher who said: "Why don't you go and find out?" and his principal who, a few minutes later, listened to the idea and thought it was a good one. Gary could "drop out" of Victoria Park, to attend Andover High School for a month; if he would hand in a report on his own private "foreign student program," he would receive his diploma, from the Canadian school. The Debolts of Andover offered to be his "host family" and the "foreign student" was in business.

So what differences has Gary found? Let's start with the Andover he remembers and the Andover he came back to this spring:

"Of course the new high school is the big difference. We have some very impressive buildings done in concrete in Toronto, which has a good deal of modern architecture, but this is a really interesting building, architecturally, especially the use of concrete. There's a great medieval effect just as you come in the entrance, and see the two levels, and a balcony up beyond. And it has a good library. The building really works. The only thing is, it's a shame to have a marvelous school like that, and not have an auditorium."

"The other main thing you notice coming back to Andover is the new part of the Memorial Hall Library. Very very good. Actually, I used to like the dusty atmosphere of the downstairs part of the library before, but now there's space for a lot more people and reading material and better use."

HOST AND "FOREIGN GUEST" are Tom Debolt, left, and Gary Bellinger, the former Andover resident who came down from his Canadian school to spend a month as a senior at Andover High. (Currier)

Another thing you notice coming back is that there are a couple of hippie type clothes shops. In Andover! Other than that, its about the same, just a nice quiet town. You can't compare it with Don Mills, really, because where I live now, we're part of metropolitan Toronto, which is the second largest city in Canada."

Gary's school, in Don Mills is almost twice the size of A.H.S. It's more cosmopolitan, he says, with more different nationalities represented. "The president of our class, for instance, is Chinese, and we have Germans, students from India, and a good many others. So more languages are taught."

There's a difference in dress, too, he said, that one notices right away. In Victoria Park, beards, long hair and blue jeans are no issue at all, as long as they are neat and clean. This area of student freedom reminded him that in his Canadian school, students do not have study halls, but instead "spare periods," which they use as they choose, and are not expected to be in an assigned place during that period. A student can spend a spare period in the cafeteria, to get a cup of coffee or an apple from a machine and talk to friends, or spend it in the Learning Resource Center (library to us) or working on a project somewhere else. Gary pointed out that the Victoria Park School was not at all typical of the more isolated Canadian schools, but only of large schools in a modern metropolitan city, and Toronto is a leader in education among these.

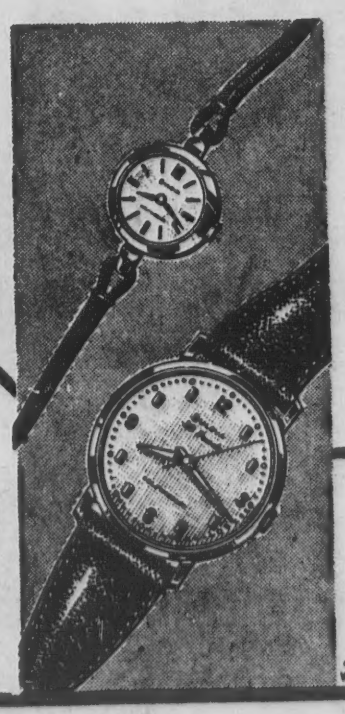

Gary is of two minds about stu- he said: "School is to learn, and discipline is part of learning." On the other hand, he doesn't see any great problem in the use of freedom at his Canadian school. He said he wasn't sure how it would work if Andover High School students were given the same freedom, and thinks that there would probably be some problems at first.

Gary found math and science courses similar at the two schools, but sees differences in the curricula and classroom presentations in the humanities between Andover High School and his large metropolitan Candian school.

At Victoria Park, studio art is also art history, since projects are assigned in the media and styles of the historical periods of art. And when our assignment was to do an impressionistic painting, the music department sent over recordings of impressionistic music of the same period. They try to set the courses up so that different subjects hit the same period or age at about the same time." (Ed. note: correlation of subjects at the secondary level is one of the stated aims of the recently established curriculum council, which plans to begin implementation in the fall.)

ACTIVITIES CENTER

the social-educational center, and unanimously approved operation of the Student Activity Center on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. The administration was asked to have a custodian check the secure closing-up of the building each of these nights, but responsibility for cleaning up was left in the hands of the students, where it has been since the Center opened early in May.

Carroll said the students will use the lounge in the summer, as well as some facilities, such as the industrial arts department which he plans to open one night a week. With School Committee approval in his pocket, he can look up more teachers will to help run courses, Tuesday and Thursday nights, when the gym will also be open.

The students would like to plan entertainment, dances or movies, for Wednesday evenings. Plans call for the gym to be open, and there is great interest in the tennis courts being available as soon as possible. Committeeman William A. Doherty suggested the possibility of outdoor lights, and Recreation Director, Leslie Bartow, reported that Town Manager, Richard Bowen was already talking in terms of lights for the area.

School and recreation officials and the School Committee agreed that the Student Activity Center would have to run a full school year before it could be fully evaluated, but there was general pleasure expressed at its initial success. Carroll told the Committeemen that without the library, the combined recreational-educational program would not have been a success; he also stressed the importance of the gym, saying that the recent opening of the gym during week nights, as well as the originally scheduled Saturday afternoon session, had served between 70 to 90 boys who might otherwise just be hanging around.

AVIS Secures Boat Landing

The Andover Village Improvement Society has been able to arrange with the Boston and Maine Corporation to allow the Society the use of a 4-acre, well wooded piece of B & M land for a public landing on the Sahwsheen River. The area is on the west bank of the river, about one half mile upstream from the Ballardvale Dam, just below the point where the river passes under the railroad bridge. The area may be approached only from the river; crossing the tracks is prohibited.

For the convenience of canoeists and boaters, there are signs at the two landing spots where watercraft may be pulled ashore. These state that the land is open to the public, but caution that camping, smoking and fires are not permitted. The area is an ideal spot for picnicking, but the public is asked to be careful to remove all litter on leaving, so that all may enjoy a clean spot.

There is an interesting trail leading downstream for about a quarter of a mile. Conditions of the arrangement with the B&M require that everyone shall keep at least 20 feet away from the tracks. This is a really beautiful spot, with fine old trees, some as large as two feet in diameter. AVIS invites persons using the river for canoeing and boating to visit it, but to be careful to observe the necessary rules governing its use.

OLDER FOLKS TO UPTOWN ANDOVER FOR A NEIGHBORLY GOOD TIME AND REAL FUN!

Editorial Comment

That Day's Here

Today is a day of immeasurable importance, unspeakable release, uncontrollable glee, not really fully understood until you're about eight, and never appreciated as earnestly again after you're twelve years old. School's out!

Summer's here, if it will only quit raining long enough to play softball or tennis (how are those courts coming along at the high school?) or even cut the grass, or for the Sox to make up a few rained-out games. But even in the rain, you can fish.

Enjoy the Recreation Park, be litter-perfect there and when you explore the new pond and brook lands the Conservation Commission has acquired to be set aside forever as green areas in our town, help keep them green!

Have a good vacation. We have great faith in you, that it will be at least three weeks before you are complaining to your mothers "But there's nothing to do!"

Diet of Violence

The exploitation of violence on TV and the movie screen has suddenly become a national issue.

We have suddenly become aware that the assassinations of King and Kennedy are not so much exceptional but part of a pattern of violent acts that put America way "ahead" of England and other European countries in the statistics of violent crime.

Thoughtful people connect the violence young eyes see rehearsed on the screen with the violence enacted on the sidewalk and in homes across the country. If young people, who now watch more than they read, are raised on a diet that downgrades human values and glorifies brutality, what can we expect? Monkey see, monkey do is not an inappropriate term here.

We're not asking for sugar-coating, which is a distortion of reality, too, but just for an end of what one Hollywood writer has called films "geared to the current commercial cycle of violence, brutality and killing, a very real factor in contributing to the present climate of hate and violence."

Encouraging news is that more than 350 Hollywood writers, producers, directors and actors in the past few days have pledged "never again to participate in any piece that contains senseless violence for its own sake."

How about TV? Nothing is so sensitive to public pressure and opinion as the entertainment industry. If violence stops paying, it will stop playing. Postcards cost only a nickel.

Join The Fun

For the next couple of days Andover will become Fun Town, U.S.A.

Friday and Saturday will be Sidewalk Bazaar days when young and old flock downtown to meet their friends and to take in the many attractions the merchants annually provide for this special occasion.

There will be clowns and music and the tantalizing aroma of fried chicken coming from the municipal parking lot which will be the center of the downtown activities. The carnival spirit will attract many from the neighboring communities because the Bazaar in Andover has quite a reputation for being real good entertainment as well as a chance to patronize the local merchants.

Drop by and join the fun.

Long Range Survey

The Capital Improvement Program, a six-year schedule for the undertaking of public projects, was released by the Planning Board at a joint session with the selectmen and town manager last week. It was prepared with professional assistance and contains extensive charts and summations which show what the Town of Andover will probably be doing between now and 1973.

It should be required reading for those who expect to be around for awhile paying taxes.

Enrollment in the Andover public schools will top 3000 in September for the first time in history.

At The Library

Reserve System

People in Andover like most other communities, want to read "what everyone else is reading" for the most part, according to Circulation Head, Mrs. John Wilson.

The list of books on "reserve" at the Memorial Hall Library reads like a national "best-seller" list for the past six months, with such books as Desmond Morris' "The Naked Ape," Catherine Marshall's "Christy," Norman Vincent Peale's "Enthusiasm Makes the Difference," Eli Kazan's "The Arrangement," Stephen Birmingham's "Our Crowd," Arthur Hailey's "Airport," Jesse Stern's "Edgar Cayce: The Sleeping Prophet," and Ira Levin's "Rosemary's Baby," at the top.

"Patrons who want to read the latest books can be more certain of getting them promptly if they place reservations at the library," Mrs. Wilson said.

The reserves or requests are then filed chronologically in the order in which they are received. Later when the book returns from circulation, it is held back and a postal notice is sent to the patron indicating that the book is available.

"The reserve system enables us to set up a first-come-first-served basis in filling patron requests for widely read books," Mrs. Wilson explained.

Other titles which have been especially in demand in recent months include "A Modern Priest Looks at His Outdated Church," by James Kavanaugh; "Gabriel Hounds," by Mary Stewart; "Nicholas and Alexandra," by Robert Massie; "Doctor's Wives," by Frank Slaughter; "Coffee, Tea or Me?" by Trudy Baker; "Topaz," by Leon Uris, and "The Doctor's Quick Weight Loss Diet," by Irwin Stillman.

Learning Materials

Want to use the latest in new teaching materials for your school children? Are you a parent curious about recent developments in education? The Memorial Hall Library has a display of books and materials on Programmed Learning. If you are unfamiliar with this new approach to teaching, you can study the display set up in the Adult Room of the library. This display includes instructional materials, work books, guides and listings of where this material can be obtained. If your children are now being exposed to Programmed Learning instruction, why not take the opportunity to find out what Programmed Learning is all about?

AT GRADUATION

Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Deyermond, 91 Elm St., attended the graduation of their granddaughter, Wendi L. Markert, June 9, from the Northfield Girls Schools, Northfield. Wendi is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Markert, former residents of Andover. Their son, David R. Markert, graduated from Quinsigamond Community College, Friday, June 7 with a degree in Business Administration.

'Older Worker' Law In Effect

Just a reminder, Mr., Mrs., or Miss Older Worker.

It's a violation of the Federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act for an employer to refuse to hire a person between 40 and 65 because of age.

This law went into effect June 12 for all companies employing 50 or more workers, and starting June 30, it will apply to all companies employing 25 or more workers.

And you may not be too old for that promotion, either. The same new Federal law prohibits larger firms from discriminating against workers from 40 to 65 years of age.

And it's also against the law to use printed advertisements for workers that indicate any preference, limitation or discrimination based on age. However, there is an exception. That's where age is a "bona fide occupational qualification reasonably necessary to the normal operations of the particular business".

Some 500,000 employers, employment agencies and labor unions have been notified of the Age Discrimination Law through the Washington Office of Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz. Notices are being posted prominently in these establishments.

Stanley C. Wollaston, Regional Director of the U.S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions at Boston says employers and employees alike can get more information on this law by contacting the nearest Federal Wage-Hour Office in their area.

criptions also included estimates of cost, suggested sources of funds and estimates of how long the project would take and when it should begin.

Reviews of the proposals were made by Town Manager Richard J. Bowen who will have the prime responsibility for the execution of the programs.

The board of selectmen were also consulted in the preparation of the six-year program.

"Based on the analysis which has been made, it appears that the town can afford the cost of the Capital Improvement Program as recommended without serious financial strain," the report states.

Over the six-year period, it is estimated that the tax rate would increase approximately $8 if the proposed projects were carried out.

Lemon juice is an age-old way of changing the color of your hair "naturally." There are lots of things you can do with it to produce different results. If you're blonde, a light brownette or a redhead, a tablespoon of lemon juice added to a cup of warm water is a great rinse. Just pour it on after a shampoo and rinse it out. You'll be surprised at its brightening power. If your hair tends to be dry, and you want to do a lightening and a conditioning job all at once, combine the juice of two lemons with a cup of mayonnaise and massage it into wet hair. Let it stay on for twenty minutes. Then wash it out with a pure, gentle shampoo. Voila! Best of all . . go to a trained colorist who will condition your hair and color it properly. Seek the expert assistance of those at CAPILO HAIR STYLISTS, 2 Riverina Rd., Shawsheen-Andover. Tel. 475-1639. Complete beauty service. Open Daily 9-6. Fri. 9-8. Ample Parking.

Austin E. Anderson and Atty. Alfred W. Fuller were the major award winners at the sixth annual dinner meeting of the Andover Chamber of Commerce held Monday evening at the Sheraton Rolling Green Motor Inn.

Anderson, proprietor of the Andover Gift Shop, who has served as president, vice president, treasurer and a director of the chamber, was presented the President's Award trophy "for his service to the chamber and the business community of Andover."

Atty. Alfred W. Fuller, past chairman of the Andover Zoning Board of Appeals received the Community Service Award for his "dedicated service to the chamber and for his assistance as a public official."

Service Awards were presented to Rev. James A. Wenzel, O.S.A., and Joseph B. Doherty, both outgoing directors.

The chamber's new President, Atty. Thomas W. Tavenner, presented a Past President's Plaque" to outgoing president George E. Haseltine.

In addition to Atty. Tavenner, other officers elected for the 1968-1969 term are: vice president, William A. Doyle; secretary, David B. Woodworth; treasurer, Robert M. Henderson; directors for two years, Eugene A. Bernardin and John Zenevitch; directors for one year, Mrs. Barbara Z. Brown and Jerry O'Donaghue.

Speaker at the dinner was Erwin D. Canham, editor-in-chief of the Christian Science Monitor, who discussed the nation's current ills, including the recent assassination of Sen. Kennedy.

He said that the United States faces the problem of restoring decency and self respect in the eyes of the world.

"We're living in a kind of mass society in which man tends to be dwarfed. The problem is for man to rediscover himself, to escape from being faceless man," he said.

Senior Citizens Trip Wednesday

All of Andover's senior citizens have until Monday noon to make reservations to travel with the Andover Council on Aging's group on Wednesday, June 26. Rye Beach and then Hampton Beach will be their destinations, with lunch at Hampton Beach.

Buses will leave Central School at 10 a.m., returning mid-afternoon. The cost for transportation will be $1.50 to be collected at the bus. Lunch will be at places chosen by each traveler at Hampton Beach and the cost up to the individual.

Reservations should be made as soon as possible through the Veteran's Services Office in the Andover Town Hall.
